Tip of the week

This semester, we’ve shared with you information about studying, advising, tutoring, writing, and now you’ve made the decision to attend Exam Jam this week to get more information about tackling final exams. But let’s talk about WHY you are doing all of this!

Being focused on your ultimate goal can help motivate you to put in that last bit of effort to finish the semester strong.

Keep in mind...

- Think about how much you have grown during your college experience – from when you first arrived on campus until now. Think about how much more you can achieve when you’re done.

- Why did you choose your major? If you chose your major to help people or to own your own business (whatever the reason), think of how each class is getting you closer to reaching those goals.

- Why do I need to do well in my general education classes? Keep a positive attitude. Avoid thinking, “this isn’t relevant to what I want to do.” There is a purpose behind each of these classes, and although you might not want to make a career out of them, they lead help you become a well-rounded professional and could open the door to new interests for you.

- Make this time count! You don’t want to have to re-take classes; you want to finish your degree and graduate with your friends. You’ve put in the work this semester, so finish strong!

- Why do you want to graduate from college? Think of how proud your family, friends, and loved ones will be on your big day – always keep that day in focus in every task you do.

“Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.”
- Ralph Waldo Emerson
